

Work on other Layouts

Craig

Apr 5

Apr 5

Been working on my layout quite a bit because of the need for distancing. I've got a lot of work done on some scenes as well as some other items to prepare for more work. Hope you guys enjoy the shots. The static grass has been a lot of fun to work with I must say. It also required me to fire up the airbrush a bit and mute some of the colors.

1/12
Apr 5

Apr 13

Also got the tunnel liners in place so I can start to fling dryer sheets near Vail Junction.

What have you guys been working on?

rnb3

Apr 6

Craig, the grass/weeds are amazing! You're colors and texture are spot on!

Someday I'll have to visit your layout.

Apr 5

I've been mostly cleaning house and garage. In the spare time in between, I've been working on details for the Mount Union lumber yard. Scratch building a forklift right now.

1 / 12
Apr 5

Craig

Apr 6

Awesome Rick. I look forward to seeing the Fork Lift and the details you put into it.

I tell ya...I'm reslly starting to enjoy the scenery stuff.

jaybarnaby

Apr 7

Dryer sheets? Never heard of anyone using those.

Apr 13

Craig

Apr 7

I got to tip from someone on MRH, I think. Just soak them in a slurry of plaster and fling it on. Works really great.

Just to keep the plaster from setting up too quickly I put in some baking powder to help retard the drying.

David

Apr 7

Craig that looks awesome! The muting and blending with the airbrush is a real key. In O scale I use a spray bomb! What a difference when scenery is in place. Working on the same here and will post when I get to that point.

Keep up the great work and photos.

David

jaybarnaby

Apr 8

Isn't that kinda pricey? or do you use used ones?

Craig

Apr 8

Hey Jay. Only used ones. Sorry...should have mentioned that 😊

I keep a basket right on the dryer and throw my sheets there. As of now I have 4 plastic bags full of dryer sheets. I think I have enough now

jaybarnaby

Apr 9

How are they better than paper towels?

jaybarnaby

Apr 9

Not much but it's what I'm doing

Apr 5

1 / 12

Apr 5

Apr 13

Craig

Apr 9

Hey Jay. Not sure if they are better than paper towels...but they are cheaper 😊

Looks like some good progress on your pike.

David

Apr 13

Lookin' good Jay. Progress. Love the bridges. Keep posting.

David